WRECKED THE TRAIN

Farmer Has a Head-on Collision With a Train and May Live to Tell the Story

A very peculiar accident occurred on the Green Bay & Western railroad on Thursday evening of last week in which several cars were derailed, a horse cut in two, a buggy smashed and a farmer knocked unconscious.

The west bound passenger train that arrived here at 7 o'clock in the evening, encountered a team driving east along the track, a couple of miles east of Amherst Junction, and the result was that there was a lively mishap for a few minutes, the engine and two cars being derailed, the horse killed and the buggy smashed, but the man who occupied the rig, although rendered unconscious, escaped with out a broken bone.

The man who occupied the rig was John Klopotek and it was found afterward that when he went to cross the track at Amherst Junction he turned to the east. Then he continued along the track, his horse keeping between the rails, while one wheel of the buggy was on the outside of the track and the other wheel on the inside. He continued along this way for some two or three miles, crossing several highways and two bridges where the track was five inches apart, during which the horse never failed to step on the ties and probably would have been going yet had he not met the train that put such an abrupt termination to the trip.

It is supposed that the man had gone to sleep before his horse took to the track and that he did not wake up. The rig was thought to be standing still by the railroad men when it was struck by the train. The man was picked up at one side of the track, where he was hurled by the impact with the train and it was supposed of course by the trainmen that he was dead, or at least dying, but the indications are that he will entirely recover.

Regarding Foot Ball at Grand Rapids.

Merrill Herald.—The following article was taken from the Wisconsin Record-Herald concerning the foot ball game played at Grand Rapids last Saturday.

"The treatment accorded visiting teams by the Grand Rapids crowd, which attends the games and the effort this year to play a professional athlete on the team, were not conducive to cordial relations which ought to prevail."

Merrill as you, has not played the Grand Rapids team and it is doubtful whether or not they will play this season on account of their having a professional man on the team. Frickson was not allowed to play on Merrill's first team this year on account of his having played professional base ball last summer.

Concerning the treatment which a visiting team receives at Grand Rapids, we cannot say anything about it, as our team has not had a chance to experience it this year. Although the treatment received by our team last year was certainly not worthy of praise.

From the above article one would be led to think that the football players that come to this town were in the habit of being handled in a rough manner, or that they got the worst of it from the referee, or something of that sort.

And yet we believe that the worst that has ever been done to any of them is to beat them unmercifully whenever they come here. It may be a little discouraging to practice around home until you get so that you imagine you are invincible and then come down here and be cleaned up with such ease that it is evident that you never understood the first principles of football. That is what has been happening the most of the time for several years past, and we would advise them to stay away or it may happen again this year.

Will Have to Pay.

While a railway through Adams county may prove to be a paying investment and may be a big thing for the county and everybody connected with it, it is evident that the promoters intend that the live stock on the land shall pay their share of the freight, and pay it in advance. The following item on the subject shows to what extent the promoters propose to have the people living in that section cough up.

The new Chicago & Wisconsin Valley Railway Co. plan for extending the new line from the present terminus at Merrill via Fredonia and Stevens Point, is at present on the extent of $100,000 from Adams county. The plan is to have the county issue $100,000 worth of bonds to be placed in the hands of the stockholder as some of their friends seem to be exchanging for the company's stock certificates for a like amount when the road is completed. Basing the probabilities on past experience of electric railways in this locality, this stock at that time will be worth about par. That is, five per cent of the tax on interest on the bonds is refunded by the state to the county. Adams county is now using mortgage bonds for the same purpose. The average tax on interest on bonds is $100 per mile. The 17 miles of proposed line in Adams county would give a net annual income of approximately $1,700. If the road is completed, the identical it may be stated that if the road is built through Portage county, the tax return figured on the same basis as the above, would be nearly as large. There would be upwards of $1,000 of net income in this county.

Allen J. Russell, promoter and chief engineer of the road, who has been in the case for several weeks, was expected to return to Portage today and the Portage men who are interested in the line are expecting him to stay.

Baby Wants a Home.

Ray P. Peterson, superintendent of the Orphan Home, is in the city this week on his annual visit. He said that he would be glad to have some good homes where a baby would be well cared for.

So if there are any good homes around Grand Rapids which would like to adopt a baby, son or daughter, they should write to the office, 321 Commercial, St. A. Green Bay, Wis.

Change of Program.

The idea of the city of Grand Rapids having just purchased one of the latest and best motion picture machines that can be had and will install it in the Grand Rapids theater, where they will run strictly first class five cent show. Second to none. They have also changed the name to the Grand Rapids theater and are now open every night in the week with Sunday matinee.

Miss Abbie Marshall of Green Bay has been a guest at the B. B. W. home during the past week, Mrs. Marshall being a sister to Mrs. W. W. Marshall.

WRECKED THE TRAIN

Farmer Has a Head-on Collision With a Train and May Live to Tell the Story

A very peculiar accident occurred on the Green Bay & Western railroad on Thursday evening of last week in which several cars were derailed, a horse cut in two, a buggy smashed and a farmer knocked unconscious.

The west bound passenger train that arrives here at 9:30 in the evening, encountered a man driving east along the track a couple of miles east of Amherst Junction, and the result was that there was a lively mixup for a few minutes, the engine and two cars being derailed, the horse killed and the buggy smashed, but the man who occupied the rig, although rendered unconscious, escaped without a broken bone.

The man who occupied the rig was John Klopotek and it was found afterward that when he went to cross the track at Amherst Junction he turned to the east. Then he continued along the track, his horse keeping between the rails, while one wheel of the buggy was on the outside of the track and the other wheel on the inside. He continued along this way for some two or three miles, crossing several highways and two bridges where the ties were six inches apart, during which the horse never failed to step on the ties and probably would have been going yet had he not met the train that put such an abrupt termination to the trip.

It is supposed that the man had gone to sleep before his horse took to the track and that he did not wake up. The rig was thought to be standing still by the railroad men when it was struck by the train. The man was picked up at one side of the track where he was hurled by the impact with the train and it was supposed of course by the trainmen that he was dead, or at least dying, but the indications are that he will entirely recover.

Regarding Foot Ball at Grand Rapids.

Merrill Herald:—The following article was taken from the Wausau Record-Herald concerning the foot ball game played at Grand Rapids last Saturday:

"The treatment accorded visiting teams by the Grand Rapids crowd, which attends the games and the effort this year to play a professional athlete on the team, were not conducive to cordial relations which ought to prevail."

Merrill as yet, has not played the Grand Rapids team and it is doubtful whether or not they will play this season on account of their having a professional man on the team. Erickson was not allowed to play on Merrill's first team this year on account of his having played professional base ball last summer.

Concerning the treatment which a visiting team receives at Grand Rapids, we cannot say anything about as our team has not had a chance to experience it this year. Although the treatment received by our team last year was certainly not worthy of praise.

From the above article one would be led to think that the football players that come to this town were in the habit of being handled in a rough manner, or that they got the worst of it from the referee, or something of that sort.

And yet we believe that the worst that has ever been done to any of them is to beat them unmercifully whenever they come here. It may be a trifle discouraging to practice around home until you get so that you imagine you are invincible and then come down here and be cleaned up with such ease that it is evident that you never understood the first principles of football. That is what has been happening the most of the time for several years past, and we would advise them to stay away or it may happen again this year.

Will Have to Pay.

While a railway thru Adams county may prove to be a paying investment and may be a good thing for the county and everybody concerned, it is evident that the promoters intend that the dwellers down on the sand shall pay their share of the freight, and pay it in advance.

The following item on the subject shows to what extent the promoters propose to have the people down in that section cough up:

The new Chicago & Wisconsin Valley Railway Co., which is promoting the new electric line from Janesville to Merrill via Friendship and Stevens Point, is at present endeavoring to secure temporary aid to the extent of $100,000 from Adams county. The plan is to have the county issue $100,000 worth of bonds, to be placed in the hands of the state treasurer or some other trustee, the same to be exchanged for the company's stock certificates for a like amount when the road is completed.

Allen T. Russell, promoter and chief engineer of the road, who has been in the east for several weeks, was expected to return to Portage today and the Portage men who are interested in the line are expecting dirt to fly shortly.

Baby Wants a Home.

Rev. P. Peterson, superintendent of the Orphans' Home Finding Association of Wisconsin, was in the city this week on his annual visit. He said that he would be glad to find some good homes where a baby would be welcomed.

So, if there are any good homes around Grand Rapids which would like to adopt a baby, son or daughter, they should write to the office, 819 Cors street, Sta. A., Green Bay, Wis.

Change of Program.

Reports a Good Hunt.

Leo Polzin returned on Monday evening from Motew where he had been hunting deer with the Mosher Brothers. Leo brought with him a big buck that weighs 120 pounds and reports having had a good time.

Leo says that most of the hunting is being done by Charlie Dixon and Alex. Banchlin who are having phenomenal success. He says that one day recently Charlie and Alex were out together and the rest of the crowd chased a deer onto them. The deer was all ready to be bagged when they were so sure of bagging the animal. Both were anxious that the other should have the first shot, and as they had neither a deer box nor a pack of cards along with which to settle the matter, Alex insisted that age should predominate over beauty, a Charlie took the first shot, he hit a nearby stump square in the center, and then Alex tried his luck.

Alex made a nice round hole in the tree. The buck seemed to be interested in the target practice, but he had evidently been reading the news papers and was afraid to hang around where there was so much reckless shooting, having heard of the numerous accidents that occur during the hunting season, so walked away and selected himself in the woods.

About this time the rest of the party came running up to assist in dressing the deer that the boys had shot, but strange as it may seem, there was not even a hair to show where the buck had been standing.

Charlie was lucky enough to kill a deer on Sunday, but Leo says it was one that had only one eye, and as his blind side happened to be toward the hunter he was somewhat handicapped when it came to taking care of himself. The boys report, however, that they had a good time all the way thru and a number of deer have been killed, so that everybody is happy.

Miss Katherine Kaja and Jacob Grain were married this morning at the Catholic church in the town of Sigel, the ceremony occurring at 8:30 o'clock. Both of the young people are well and favorably known and have many friends to wish them a happy journey thru life.

Was a Merry Chase.

A man who gave his name as Weiland and who is charged with having passed several forged checks about town, broke away from the officers of the law on Thursday evening and made a rapid snail up Oak street. He was closely followed by the officer and a number of citizens who joined in the chase and the consequence was that quite a rumple was kicked up and the man got away from his pursuers for the time being.

Later Phil Griffin started out to look for the man and finally located him at Kellbirt, where he was playing a game of cards in a saloon. Young Griffin walked up to the man and placed him under arrest, when a scuffle immediately started and the only way that he could be taken was for Griffin to buckle right into him and put the hands on him, which he succeeded in doing after a lively wrestling match.

Phil reported afterward that it was impossible to give him any assistance in capturing the man, notwithstanding the fact that he called upon them to do so. Later in the evening he was put onto the Northwestern train and brought to this city and placed in the county jail.

Weiland had been released from jail on Wednesday where he had been serving a two days sentence on a vagrancy charge. When a card for forgery was found in a west side saloon by officer Gibson.

The man was taken before Justice Panoville on Saturday on a charge of being drunk and disorderly and he was sentenced to a term of five days in the county jail, and when his time has expired it is expected that the district attorney will be home from deer hunting and the charge of forgery will be preferred against him.

Methodists Will Celebrate.

The Methodists are preparing for quite a time at their church from November 28th to Dec. 1st, inclusive, when they will celebrate their 60th anniversary. Their program has not all been arranged as yet, but it probably will be by next week, when it will be given in full if possible. So far as known the order of exercises will be as follows:

Nov. 28—Anniversary services
Nov. 29—Grand Church Social
Nov. 30—Sunday School rally
Dec. 1—Banquet.

The Trip a Failure.
If President Taft, who has returned to Washington after his 12,000-mile "swing around the circle," did not come back a sadder and wiser man than he started out, it must be because of a lack of perception on his part. It is patent to others, however, it may be to Mr. Taft, that his trip was a failure. The 300 speeches which he made have been without avail.

The west, instead of conversion to the president's policy of an insular and conciliatory attitude toward the south, stands more opposed to him than ever. The south, while treading the president with punctilious courtesy and warm hospitality, is still the "solid south," as firmly entrenched in opposition to Republican policies and Republican politicians as ever.

President Taft returns to the white house weaker than when he started on his long trip, and with less of the public confidence. The Republicans of the west accepted him as the party's candidate last year and aided in his election solely because they had faith in the party platform promise of an honest downward revision of the tariff and the candidate's pledge that the platform's promise would be faithfully carried out. Instead of a fulfillment of his pledges they have witnessed the president's weak surrender to the untoward forces in congress that were working in the interests of the entrenched trusts and his later unblinking defense of Aldrich in the very section where this treasury had created the bitterest resentment.

They have seen Taft whitewashing Hallinger, whose assistance in the scheme to rob the nation of a valuable part of the public domain is notorious. They have heard the president's endorsement of Wall Street's currency policy. They have witnessed with what docility he stands without hitching in the harness of the "interests."

There will be "Turkey raffle" on Saturday night. Miss Dolia E. (the O. Johnson) Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Kossup spent Sunday at home.

A Leading Editor's Opinion on the Chicago Stock Show.

"It is especially important that emphasis be placed on the necessity of live stock production at this time when the value of grain has been brought to that point which makes it a strong temptation for man to market their grain direct rather than to feed it and market it in the form of live stock. It is not enough to simply tell men that live stock farming stands for a higher type of agriculture than grain farming. They must have it thrust on them, and it is doubtful if any institution is better able to perform this important task than the great International Show."

"Since its inauguration the attendance at the International Live Stock Exposition has been made up largely of those who are specializing in some kind of live stock production. All breeders of pure bred cattle have come to believe that this annual outing is necessary if they are to keep pace with the times. As hold the pure bred record associations hold annual meetings during a period covered by the International, the occasion affords the best opportunity of the whole year for men to meet their fellow breeders who are engaged in the same line of production."

"But it is intended that the International should cover a broader field than this and include in its attendance even those engaged in raising grade cattle on the farms of the corn belt, because, after all, the most desired improvement that can be sought for is the improvement in the character of the cattle sent to the meat markets for slaughter. This paper therefore desires to especially emphasize the importance of what we might call the small farmer laying aside his duties for a few days to attend this great exposition. Those who are in doubt about the educational value of attendance should consult those who have been through either as exhibitors or visitors, in the past. Ask them if lessons will be learned that will help solve the problems on the pigsty or quoniam section, and we will take our chances as to whether the reply will be favorable or unfavorable. Scarcely a month more before date of this important event. Let farm labor be pushed along rapidly so that business will not interfere with this important outing from Nov. 27 to Dec. 10."

Mr. Biehler is the owner of a large farm in Ozaukee county and has traveled through some of the western states, but he says that none of the farms are worth so much as those in the Badger state.

Our Polish Population.

One of the best informed immigration agents in the United States estimates the total Polish population in the United States and Canada as nearly 1,000,000. In the following States there are more than 100,000 Poles: Pennsylvania, 200,000; Illinois, 150,000 (in Chicago, 85,000); New York, 125,000; Wisconsin, 250,000; Michigan, 210,000; New Jersey, 120,000; Minnesota, 120,000; Connecticut, 120,000; Massachusetts, 120,000; Ohio, 200,000; all other States, Indiana has 200,000 Poles; Nebraska, 10,000; Maryland, 20,000; Nebraska, Texas and Rhode Island, 25,000 each; Delaware and Maine, 20,000 each; and West Virginia, Washington, California, New Hampshire, North Dakota and Kansas from 15,000 to 17,000.

A few figures about the Polish National Alliance: Organized August 1, 1900, total membership 60,000; amount of insurance $1,000,000; death claims paid since organization, $1,187,325; total assets, $1,111,111; endowment fund, $1,111,111; disbursement for the expense of management, 1908, $1,111,111; disbursement for educational and charitable purposes, 1908, $1,111,111.

CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS.
Most of the Poles live in the industrial cities around the great lakes, but a considerable number of them are on the farms, and the exodus from the cities to the farms of Wisconsin, Minnesota and the rest is steadily on the increase. There are over 100 Polish churches in this country and as many Polish schools.

Of the numerous Polish societies and organizations, by far the most influential and interesting is the Polish alliance of the U. S. of N. A. It is a political, patriotic and educational organization based on the principle of fraternal orders. America, being the classic land of political freedom, many Poles, after the fall of old Poland, chose it for their adopted country. Every one of the numerous Polish struggles for liberty gave to the United States its quota of political refugees.

To the most illustrious of them the world famous warriors, Tadeusz Kosciuszko and Casimir Pulaski, it was given to cross swords with the British in the Revolutionary war. Again in the civil war many Poles fought for the Union and even reached high positions in the Federal Army. But the regular immigration of Poles to this country began shortly after the last great war of Poland against Russia in 1903-05. When the political oppression in the old country was joined by the economic persecution thousands upon thousands of strong robust tillers of Poland's fertile soil came over the ocean to seek in America not only freedom from their oppressors, but as well a better opportunity for some useful and honest occupation.

THE NATIONAL ALLIANCE.
In 1890 a group of political refugees of Polish nationality in Philadelphia conceived the idea of founding an organization which would unite the already numerous Polish societies throughout the country into one national body. So the Polish national alliance was born. Now, after 25 years of patient work, this organization comprises about 1,000 societies, with a total membership of over 60,000. The Alliance is incorporated in Illinois, but has licenses to conduct business in almost every state of the Union. In Chicago the Alliance has its headquarters at 102-101 West Division street, where beside the main offices it has a well equipped printing plant and a large library with a historic museum, where a lover of history can find many really interesting relics of Poland's old glory.

One of the principal aims of the Polish National Alliance is to help the Polish people in America to educate themselves and their progeny into good citizens of this country without forgetting what they owe to their mother country in her days of misfortune. To this purpose the Alliance publishes three newspapers, one daily and two weeklies, together have a circulation of 190,000 copies. The name of all three newspapers is the same—Zaglad, which means harrowing. Then there is a special Board of Education, which donates small libraries to Polish societies, publishes popular books about Poland and America, organizes lectures and scientific courses and gives scholarships to young men and women of Polish nationality who are studying in American universities.

TO BUILD POLISH COLLEGE.
As a crowning act of its activity in this direction the Alliance contemplates the building of a college in this country. A special committee works for this aim and the funds are growing every month. In New York, Boston, Baltimore and San Francisco, the Alliance has immigration committees, whose duty it is to care for poor Polish immigrants. There will be erected a special immigration house for them in New York; the money is ready and the Alliance just bought an appropriate building. Two other committees, one of commerce and labor and the other of agriculture and colonization—are working each in its line for the benefit of the Polish people.

There is a department of charity, which distributes every month small sums of money among the most needy members of the organization. The Polish National Alliance is non-partisan and non-denominational.

Minidoka, Idaho Project.
Among the many important projects of the United States Reclamation Service for the Governmental Reclamation of arid lands, that of Minidoka in Idaho occupies a conspicuous place. Easily reached by the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line Railroads, this proposition is peculiarly inviting to the settler. The sandy loam and volcanic ash soil is particularly adapted to the raising of alfalfa, potatoes, beets and melons. Near Minidoka, more than a thousand acres of apple trees were planted in 1908. The climate is delightful, the general elevation being 1,200 feet above sea level, and consequently fever and malaria are unknown.

The irrigable area of this project, consisting of about 81,000 acres under the gravity system and 50,000 acres under the pumping system, and the lands lie on both sides of the great Snake River, in Lincoln and Cassia Counties. The reclamation contemplated involves the construction of a storage reservoir at Jackson Lake on the head waters of the Snake, and a diversion power and storage dam on the Snake, six miles south of Minidoka. The cost of water is $30 per acre, payable in ten annual installments; for the gravity system the charge for the present year was 60 cents per acre. It is believed that this will be an abundant fruit producing section.

If the road is not made good within thirty days the postmaster is requested to recommend that the badly kept portion be permanently withdrawn from the route.

Accordingly it will be up to the towns enjoying free rural delivery to see to it that the carrier has no cause to complain of the route over which he must

Ame street has been widened to the full fifty feet within the past week and the appearance of that thoroughfare is so much improved as to make it apparent that the money was well spent. There are still a few obstructions in the street but these will be removed in time. The city fathers should keep the good work moving while they are at it and widen Oak street as well. It would really give that part of the city a much improved appearance if the change is made.

Sincerity Clothes Mean Security

The second time a man buys a suit of Sincerity clothes he feels a sense of security. Actual use—the wear and tear on his own body didn't affect the style of that suit—it stayed fit to the end. The label goes in every suit of

to prove the wear you'll get out of it. The label indicates knowledge of materials in fabric and lining and what's between. Every bit of cloth—every piece of canvas in a Sincerity garment is reshunk by the London process—method that begins where others leave off. The seasoned cloth holds the style that's worked and moulded into every Sincerity suit. SWAGGER garments every one of them—the good taste displayed in the cut will please you—workmanship will surprise, and price, too, will meet your approval.

COATS $10.00 to $35.00.

WOMAN'S CRUELTY TO WOMAN.

It is often said that women are more cruel in their judgments of women than men. The sophomores of Harvard college, New York, have evidently undertaken to show that the sex can be as cruel in action as in judgment. Only women will fully appreciate the terrible cruelty of the edict of these girl sophomores that the girl freshmen must on no account adorn themselves with hats or puffs or braids during the present college term. But the man of average observation will get at least a hint of the tragedy of the situation. While the sophomores are going about adorned in the glory of mountainous hair, the freshmen will have to content with those simple coiffures at once becoming to the face of young girls and out of style at present.

Omaha dealers are said to be rushing butter to the cold storage warehouses and predicting that consumers will be paying 50 cents a pound for the product before Christmas. It does not require a long head, nowadays, to see that butter will be higher in price in winter than in summer; in fact, from time immemorial butter has always advanced during the winter months. But when there were no cold storage warehouses the price of butter was lower at this time of the year because there were no speculators buying the product up, right and left, rushing it to the cooler, and predicting tremendous advances during the winter. The cold storage warehouse is here in many ways, but the speculative feature of its utilization has raised the summer price of butter and eggs and poultry, and also boosted the winter rates for these products. None of these products will ever again sell long at low prices, because the moment the prices ease a little the speculator jumps in and clears the market of the surplus.

It is too early to form conclusions about American trails. The United States is not the only country that has shown assimilative powers. England, on a lesser scale, has engaged in the work with signal success, says the San Francisco Chronicle. At times she has absorbed relatively large numbers of foreigners and completely Anglicized them, but at present her native-born population is so much greater than her foreign that the latter is insignificant by comparison. It is possible, therefore, to speak of British trails with some degree of propriety.

The desertion at New York of 200 seamen of Admiral Seymour's fleet reported what occurred at Hampton Roads on the occasion of the Jamestown exposition. The British "Jack Tar" finds conditions ashore in the United States so alluring that he is tempted to abandon his ship and violate the obligation incurred by the acceptance of the "Queen's shilling." The French fleet lost only a few men, probably because of language difficulties which Britons do not encounter, and because affiliations with them are not so readily established.

Reports of 6,061 cases of appendicitis in Berlin during 1907 destroy a foreign impression that this trouble is an "American disease." Detailed reports on Berlin hospital census bear out the American surgical claim that early operations reduce the mortality rate. By such evidence from an old world center of authority the alien criticism should be still further modified that American surgeons are too ready with the knife.

Indisputably the materials of subsistence cost more than a year ago. A dispatch from Washington notes that last year the average cost to the government of food supplies for the army was on the basis of 10.65 cents for a soldier's daily ration, whereas now it is 21.5 cents. At this rate the market bill for the whole army for the current year will be $1,340,209 higher than in 1908.

Sixteen plus have been taken from the arm of a Paterson girl, who has no idea how they came there. Funny things happen over on the Jersey side.

No matter how strenuous the season, a league baseball team always finds a chance to do a little barnstorming after it is over.

Queensland now supplies most of the wood for fishing rods. But the average country boy does not have to go nearly that far.

The Pennsylvania prairie who offers boxes of candy to girls who bring young men to church evidently believes in sweet persuasion as a moral force.

A New York man invents a hat that can be turned into an umbrella. People are tiring of the sort that can be turned into clothes hampers.

Anyhow, Uncle Sam saw it first. Even Cook and Perry will agree to that.

It is announced that there is no appreciable area in the ice regions of the north pole, and consequently any claim to it must be put in cold storage.

BANKER SHOT DEAD

CASHIER OF NEW ALBANY BANK SLAIN AND PRESIDENT WOUNDED.

Police in Motor Boat Pursue Youth Who Tried to Hold Up Bank and Capture Him After an Exciting Chase.

Louisville, Ky.—The youthful bandit who entered the Merchants National bank at New Albany, Ind., Thursday, and after killing J. H. Hargis, cashier, the cashier with the first bullet, turned his weapon on John K. Woodward, president of the institution, and shot him, probably fatally, was identified as Thomas J. Hall, 15 years old, by his father William J. Hall, a furniture dealer of Louisville.

John K. Tucker, motor chauffeur of an automobile in which the bandit tried to make his escape, was also wounded and may die.

After an exciting chase down the Ohio river by a motor boat full of police, the bandit was captured. The prisoner was saved from a mob which had gathered to lynch him, only by a rifle.

As the bandit entered the door of the bank he ordered everyone to hold up their hands. An instant later he began firing with both guns.

Police were shot through the chest and neck and died almost instantly. President Woodward was shot through the liver and intestines. Tucker, the chauffeur, who lives in Louisville, was also through the body.

Following the shooting the mob rushed into the bank and tried to make his escape in an automobile, which had been driven by the owner, Mr. Walter Exalt, in Louisville, forcing Tucker at the point of a gun to drive him to New Albany. But the chauffeur, paralyzed with terror and apparently incapable of action, did not.

The robber jumped from the car and sent a bullet through the cashier's body. Turning down the river bank, a distance perhaps of two blocks, the youth ran with the speed of a deer. He quickly appropriated a skill at the dock and was on his way to the Kentucky side before the frightened citizens of New Albany knew what had happened.

An alarm was given through a telephone on a dredgeboat and in a moment the police of the little city had started in pursuit in a fast motor boat, capturing the man, and had brought him to shore, only to confront the new peril of a lynch mob.

By a clever ruse, however, Capt. Adams of the police stood off the crowd of 200 which crowded around the dock as the police boat, lured by the captain's announcement to the crowd that the man had taken poison and was dead, meanwhile carrying him to the patrol wagon and giving the word to drive ahead. The bandit was taken to the New Albany jail. A few moments later he was removed to Jeffersonville to escape the mob, which would not be quieted and which had assembled around the jail.

He seemed confused, but is apparently not insane. He confessed that he planned the robbery of the bank and says he had no assistance.

JAMAICA CABLE IS CUT OFF
Weather Officials at Washington Believe There Has Been a Submarine Earthquake.

Washington.—Weather reports from Kingston, Jamaica, which the bureau usually receives daily, have failed to come since last Saturday and officials of the service have been without information regarding what has occurred there because of the break in the cable.

There has been no general tropical disturbance in the West Indies, and the weather bureau officials are inclined to believe that a submarine earthquake has caused the interruption.

Hypnotized Man Dies.
Somerville, N. J.—As the result of a hypnotic experiment Robert Simpson is dead and Prof. Arthur Evertson of Newark, the hypnotist, is under arrest. Simpson was hypnotized at a performance at the theater here Monday night. After placing the man in a catatonic state the hypnotist performed many tests in the presence of the audience. When the time came to end the exhibition, however, Prof. Evertson found that his work, to his appearance, had been too thorough. The subject could not be revived. In alarm the hypnotist called on physicians, who, after laboring a long time over Simpson, pronounced him dead.

KING IS 68 YEARS OLD

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY SURROUNDED BY FAMILY.

Receives Many Congratulatory Messages from All Parts of World, Including One from Taft.

London, England.—King Edward celebrated his sixty-eighth birthday at Sandringham palace Tuesday, surrounded by most of the members of his family and a few intimate friends. Telegrams of congratulation were received by his majesty from all parts of the world. His health is considerably improved.

From early morning the tenantry of Sandringham were feasted by the King and Queen Alexandra, who made a point of personally looking after the wants of their guests.

Surfing broke in with stones and yells of defiance upon a track to King Edward at a banquet in honor of the monarch's sixty-eighth birthday last night at Sir John Knill, newly inaugurated lord mayor of London, stood with raised glass to wish many happy years of life to his majesty.

A great stained glass window in the hall where the celebration of the evening was being held was shattered by a shower of stones, and as the guests leaped to their feet in consternation, the anti-guests' battle cry came through the jagged opening.

"Votes for women! Votes for women!"

Almost in an instant, after the first surprise had been given, scores of guests made a dash for the exits, looking to dodge mob stones as they ran. The banquet was almost broken up.

Two women of several who had gained the roof of an adjoining building were arrested. Piled on the house-top were stones that had not been thrown in the assault.

QUEEN OF TROTTERS DEAD
Hamburg Belle with Record of 2:01½ Expires from Pneumonia on Georgia Farm.

Thomasville, Ga.—Hamburg Belle, 2:01½, queen of the trotting turf, is dead.

Though brought south to escape the rigors of a northern winter, the famous mare died at the stock farm of her owner, near this place, of pneumonia.

Hamburg Belle was bought by Mel Hanna of Cleveland, O., a few months ago for $50,000. The mare registered as Silly Silenus II, made three world's records at the North Randall track near Cleveland on August 25 last, in her match race with the black horse (Hahn). The first heat was trotted in 2:01½, the fastest mile ever trotted in a race, and two seconds faster than the previous record held by Greycourt. The second heat was trotted in 2:01½, the fastest second heat trotted in a race, and the race itself was the fastest two heats.

McFarland Gets Decision.
Kansas City, Mo.—Packer McFarland, the idol of the Chicago stock yards district, was given the decision over "Cyclone Johnny" Thompson of Seymour, Ill., in a whirlwind ten-round fight here Monday.

The battle was that of a scientific boxer who was able to hit and get away against a man whose main asset is slugging and who could not get near enough to his opponent to land.

In but one round, the second, was Thompson able to send home enough telling blows to make it appear that his strength would carry the fight home to him. But with Packer banging and making the most of his wonderful footwork, the "Cyclone" could not corner him.

MME. STEINHEIL NEAR VICTORY

WOMAN'S COOK IS STRONG WITNESS FOR DEFENSE.

Prosecution's Chain of Evidence Broken—New Investigation May Be Ordered.

Pitts.—The testimony Wednesday in the trial of Mrs. Steinheil, charged with the murder of her husband and her stepmother, was distinctly favorable to the defendant.

Martha Wolf, the cook in the Steinheil household, and her son, Alexander, whose appearance was awaited with profound interest, threw no new light on the mystery, but by a further mass of contradictions strengthened the impression in the accused woman's favor. Mrs. Steinheil's nurse also contradicted her previous deposition, in which she expressed the opinion that the defendant's illness after the crime was simulated, and Maurice Borden, a wealthy merchant, whom the state master M. Steinheil desired to marry, testified to his absolute belief in her innocence.

The state's circumstantial case against Mrs. Steinheil seems to be rapidly breaking down and it is already rumored that the trial may be abandoned and a new investigation ordered.

ONCE RICH, DIES A TRAMP
Former Owner of Springfield Coal Mine Dined in Potters' Field.

La Crosse, Wis.—Owner of a rich coal mine at Springfield, Ill., 45 years ago, Walter Jordan, as a tramp workman, was killed near here by a train and buried unidentified in the potter's field, and Tuesday Katie Jordan of Chicago and James C. Jordan of St. Paul, sister and brother, exhumed his body. From descriptions his relatives are certain it is their brother, who disappeared a fortune in drink, could not swim and was killed while in an intoxicated condition.

A few years ago Jordan owned the Springfield mine, but, offered a large sum for his mining interests, disposed of them. The cash was spent freely until within a very short time Jordan was broke. Ashamed to look his relatives in the face he disappeared and since that time has been missing.

London, England.—King Edward celebrated his sixty-eighth birthday at Sandringham palace Tuesday, surrounded by most of the members of his family and a few intimate friends. Telegrams of congratulatory messages were received by him from all parts of the world. His health is considerably improved.

From early morning the tenantry of Sandringham were feasted by the king and Queen Alexandra, who made a point of personally looking after the wants of their guests.

Surfing took place in the afternoon and the king and queen, accompanied by King Edward at a banquet in honor of the monarch's sixty-eighth birthday last night at Sir John Knill, newly inaugurated lord mayor of London, stood with raised glass to wish many happy years of life to his majesty.

A great stained glass window in the hall where the celebration of the evening was being held was shattered by a shower of stones, and, as the guests leaped to their feet in consternation, the suffragette battle cry came through the jagged opening.

"Votes for women! Votes for women!" Almost in an instant, after the first surprise had been overcome, scores of guests made a dash for the exits, looking to dodge more stones as they ran. The banquet was almost broken up.

CAN CONGRESS SHAKE OFF THE "OLD MAN OF THE SEA?"

MME. STEINHEIL NEAR VICTORY
WOMAN'S COOK IS STRONG WITNESS FOR DEFENSE.

Prosecution's Chain of Evidence Broken—New Investigation May Be Ordered.

Paris.—The testimony Wednesday in the trial of Mme. Steinheil, charged with the murder of her husband and her stepmother, was distinctly favorable to the defendant.

Marietta Wolf, the cook in the Steinheil household, and her son, Alexander, who appeared as witnesses, threw new light on the mystery, but by a further mass of contradictions strengthened the impression in the accused woman's favor.

The state's circumstantial case against Mme. Steinheil seems to be rapidly breaking down and it is already rumored that the trial may be abandoned and a new investigation ordered.

HEROES OF THE AMERICAN NAVY

EAR ADMIRAL CHARLES DWIGHT SIGSBEE is on the retired list, and a fine old seaman has a landsman's berth for the rest of his life. The name Sigsbee is inseparably connected with the loss of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor on the night of February 15, 1898. It is, perhaps, not generally appreciated that naval authorities consider that in the writing of his first report of the disaster to the Maine, Capt. Sigsbee marked himself as a commander of remarkable coolness and ability. The sentence in the report which brought the Maine's captain the commendation of his superiors and of all thinking men was: "Public opinion should be suspended until further report."

The Maine was sent to Havana harbor on a peculiarly delicate mission. In reality the vessel was there to protect American residents against the Spaniards in the city, who were becoming ugly. It was necessary, however, that Capt. Sigsbee should make it appear that the visit of the Maine was entirely friendly. After the Maine was destroyed the commander of the ship, instead of losing time in attempting to cast the blame for the disaster upon others than himself, and instead of following what would seem to be the natural course of making it appear that it was a Spanish act of treachery, wrote the words which made him famous, and gave "every chance for the cause of the explosion to be traced—to his own negligence, or to that of his officers. If such prove to be the case—in his efforts to avert war."

It is always a tremendous misfortune for a naval officer to lose his ship, no matter what the cause. There is always a feeling existing, regardless of the odds against which a vessel has to contend, whether of the fury of the storm or of the overweighing of the enemy's shot and shell, that if handled by somebody else the vessel might have survived the conflict.

It undoubtedly was a sad blow to Capt. Sigsbee when war was declared against Spain that he was not given command of a battleship. The naval department, however, did the next best thing that it could do for him in ordering him to the deck of the St. Paul, which was a transatlantic liner, fast and mounting fairly heavy guns, and which had been pressed into the service as a scout cruiser.

Part of Capt. Sigsbee's lot, however, to command his ship in one of the most notable engagements of the Spanish war. It is very possible that as much glory came to Sigsbee from this encounter as came to the commander of any battleship which was engaged in the fight off Santiago harbor with Cervera's Spanish squadron.

The St. Paul had an encounter with the Spanish torpedo boat Terror. The fight was of tremendous importance and of supreme interest to the naval authorities of the world, for it was the first time practically that a torpedo boat of this kind, and of which much was expected, went into battle against a practically unarmed vessel, but a vessel carrying serviceable guns and a crew of expert gunners.

The St. Paul was in the vicinity of San Juan, Porto Rico, June 22, 1898. It was there in the hope of discovering certain Spanish men-of-war which were thought to be in the vicinity. A little past noon on the twenty-second, Lieut. Patterson of the St. Paul saw a cruiser leaving the harbor of San Juan. Instantly the men of the St. Paul were called to quarters, Capt. Sigsbee taking the bridge. The cruiser turned out to be the Infanta Isabel, a Spanish man-of-war.

The St. Paul prepared to meet the Spaniard, but the enemy persisted in keeping under the protection of the batteries, though Sigsbee ran his vessel in so close that she was exposed for a long time to the missiles of the eight and ten inch guns of the Spanish fort. If the Spaniards had been better marksmen it might have fared ill with the St. Paul, but Sigsbee knew with whom he had to deal and he took chances, as does every brave commander.

While attempting to draw the Infanta Isabel into battle the captain of the American ship saw the torpedo-boat destroyer Terror come out of the harbor under full steam and head for his ship. The Terror was making a dash for the St. Paul with the intention of sending a torpedo into her and sinking her, to keep company with Sigsbee's last vessel, the Maine. As a naval writer has put it, "at last the much boasted torpedo boat was upon trial under battle conditions."

The captain of the St. Paul held his fire until the rushing enemy, presenting only a small target, had reached a distance of about 5,400 yards and then there followed one of the finest exhibitions of American marksmanship that naval history shows. The distance was great, but from the deck of the St. Paul it would seem that the projectiles were falling close to the supposedly deadly torpedo boat.

Capt. Sigsbee in his official report told the subsequent story thus:

"Suddenly the Terror heeded up into the wind, broadside to the St. Paul, as I understood, but kept up a fire from her battery, her shot falling short. I was looking at her from the upper bridge with binocular glasses of great power, and at this time I saw a shell explode, apparently against her hull, about the after smokestack."

"She immediately turned with port helm and stood in for the harbor at considerable speed, her behavior giving evidence of damage. Instead of standing in through the channel close to the Morro, whence she had issued to begin her attack, she fell a long distance to leeward. When down toward Cabras island she rounded to and stood southeastward toward the harbor, apparently not under good management. The Spanish cruiser showed concern by standing in after her."

The Spaniard was compelled to send the Terror aground to prevent her from sinking. It was found that three shells had struck her, killing and wounding many of her crew and effectually putting her out of action. The Infanta Isabel and another Spanish cruiser stayed under the protection of the batteries, refusing to answer Sigsbee's challenge to battle.

It is probable that every American naval officer will admit that Rear Admiral Charles Edgar Clark has had as varied a career of service as any man who ever trod the quarter deck. It seems likely—in fact, a search of the records shows nothing to the contrary—that Admiral Clark is the only sailor of the navy who ever fought North American Indians. The admiral's masterly sailing of the Oregon around the Horn, his magnificent handling of the same ship in the battle with the Spaniards of Santiago and in other things which the old sailor has done well, have so made his latter service to shine that his early exploits, though bright enough in themselves, have been shadowed by contrast.

Precious few people know that when Clark was a youngster in the service he was thrown by force of the waves and circumstances into contact with warlike Indians of the northwest coast. Old settlers who dwell at the end of the Lewis and Clark trail will tell you to-day that Lieut. Clark in the trying situation of being surrounded by 400 savage reds, each one bent on taking his sailor scalp, conducted himself in a manner worthy of Carson, Bridger or any other of the old plainsmen, pathfinders and Indian fighters.

Early in July, 1858, Clark was the fifth officer in rank on board the old warship Suwanee, a battle-scarred veteran vessel of the civil war days. The Suwanee struck a storm off Vancouver island and it was one of the worst storms that the supposedly gentle Pacific ever allowed itself to be stirred to. Everything that seamanship knew how to do was done to save the ship, but there are storms that laugh at seamanship.

At the end the Suwanee was on the rocks off the northern end of Vancouver island. Most of the members of the crew were saved. When the storm abated it was possible for a large part of the survivors to make their way to the mainland, but it was necessary to leave a contingent of the crew on Hope island, where they were to await the return of boats for their relief.

Lieut. Clark was left in command of the camp on the island and of its 33 sailor occupants. The men left behind had precious little to eat. The sailor lives on the sea, but he does not know at what hour during the day, inferior oysters and fish of a kind less digestible than the sculpin formed the chief of their diet.

While the shipwrecked ones were doing their best to fight off famine 400 Indians, fully armed and ready for a massacre, appeared in sight of the camp. Lieut. Clark took part in the great battle of Mobile Bay, where he had torpedoes under him, Confederate war vessels all about him and Confederate batteries landward. He had shown that he knew what to do under such circumstances, but here he was confronted with something entirely new in the line of war problems. He proved equal to the savage occasion, however, and as the Indians swung around his camp in a circle to hem it in, he deployed his men so that they were sheltered from arrows and bullets and were prepared to hold off a horde of reds.

The Indians attacked the sailors and were met with the same kind of reception that they would have met if they were attacking time-tried plainsmen accustomed to every known method of the reds' warfare. The Suwanee's shipwrecked ones had little sleep for a day and two nights. They did not know at what hour during the day the Indians would close in on them, and so they lay awake with straining eyes, but with enough strength still in reserve, despite their shellfish diet, to fight gamely.

About an hour after sunrise one morning there was a commotion among the Indians. They were looking off toward the mainland. The commotion increased as the minutes went by and soon the whole band scudded toward the north, where supposedly they had boats, for certain it is that a few hours later there was not a trace of a red to be found on the island. There was relief in sight for the shipwrecked ones, and it was a glimpse of the oncoming boats that had sent the Indians on the back trail.

The trip of the Oregon from San Francisco to Key West under the command of Capt. Clark has an enduring place in American naval history. Illness overtook Capt. Alexander H. McCormick, who was in command of the ship, and Capt. Clark succeeded him. It was an unexpected duty which devolved upon Clark, but he met it in a way that the world knows all about.

The Oregon arrived at Rio de Janeiro April 20, 1898, and it was there that the captain received a dispatch from Washington stating that war had existed between the United States and Spain since the twenty-first of the month. Capt. Clark mustered his crew and made the war announcement. The scene that followed was an inspiring one. Lieut. Eberle of the Oregon, in an article in the Century Magazine eight years ago, describes it thus:

"All hands were very anxious for news, and memorable were the cheers that greeted the news that war had been declared. In a few moments our band was on deck and between the rounds of cheers the strains of 'The Star-Spangled Banner' and 'Hail, Columbia' floated over the Brazilian fleet and the crowds that lined the wharves. The crew uncovered and stood at attention during the playing of the national anthem, and then followed more cheers and the inspiring battle cry, 'Remember the Maine!'

A watchword often heard about the decks as the men turned to the coal barges and worked as they had never worked before. The intense heat and the long, trying hours of those days and nights were borne without a murmur."

It was one of the Oregon's men who wrote: "We loved our captain and had such faith in him as a gentleman and a 'scraper' after our own hearts that we were ready for any kind of a fight with him as a leader."

Rear Admiral Charles Edgar Clark went upon the retired list of the navy at an age two years younger than by the requirements of the law an army officer must, leave the ranks. Why the naval law sends the sailors into retirement while the soldiers of the same age are still on the fighting line no one knows.

His Star Role

A theatrical manager had a stock company at Los Angeles. Business was bad and no money coming in. He hadn't paid a salary for months and had managed to keep his company together by advertising in San Francisco and elsewhere, holding out all sorts of promises.

The actors came, stayed until all their own money was gone, and then left. The manager made shift to keep his thespians contented by taking them on little excursions about the city when they were not working. One day he announced: "This afternoon ladies and gentlemen, we shall visit the insane asylum, a most interesting place."

They went out and were shown through. Seated under a tree in the garden was a man who, over and over again, was counting his fingers and muttering: "Zen-y-meeny-may-moe—eeny-meeny-mitry-moe."

"Who is this?" asked the manager.

"Strange case," said the attendant. "Found him in the street a few weeks ago. He sits there all day and does that. Harmsless, but apparently quite insane. We are giving him the best of attention in the hope that his reason may be restored."

The manager looked at the counter closely: "Bless my soul!" said the manager. "It resembles my former leading man, Simpson."

The man kept counting his fingers. "Really," said the manager, "it is a most extraordinary resemblance."

Meantime, the other actors and actresses and the attendant had gone on. "Tell me, my good fellow," said the manager, "are you not Simpson, the actor?"

"Cheese it!" said the man who was counting his fingers. "If they don't get onto me I can stay here all summer."—Saturday Evening Post.

As to the Heaviest Fly.

The Heaviest fly is a common product which was conceived in iniquity and born in sin. It is a long, rangy fly with a little like a steel trap, and it lays a pale blue, oblong egg at the rate of 30,000 an hour. The Heaviest fly will eat anything from decaying food to a glass of beer, but its favorite dish is a double neck of fat pork. This bird can perform a two-step on sticky fly paper without croaking its toes, and is proof against rough on rats, the daisy fly killer, and a strychnine hypodermic. No Heaviest fly was ever known to die of anything but old age, which accounts for the color of its cheeks. If it ever fastens upon your jaw, it will stay until removed by the undertaker.—Manchester (La.) Press.

The Remarkable Trimming.

"Jimmy, trim the pretty netting to her color husband, 'won't you run down to the milliner's and get me the hat I ordered?'"

"Sure I won't make a mistake?" queried Jimmy, somewhat dubiously, with a certain born of an after ignorance of millinery.

"Oh, you won't," laughed the spouse, "My hat is the white heaver trimmed with orchids. You can remember that."

Gamely he went to his doom. Fastening the millinery, she asked, "ralliantly, is my wife's hat ready? I mean the white biffer, trimmed with oh-you-kids?"

And the French girls in the shop made funny Parisian giggles at him.

"Yes," answered his mother, impressively.

"And did his father thrash him when he was little?"

"Yes."

"And did his father thrash him?"

"Yes."
